Women Sharing Hope has invited the RR Republican Club to attend.
Date/Time: Friday, September 4, 10:00 AM to about noon.
Location: Robson Clubhouse.
Guest Speakers: Richard Penkoski and David Grisham.

Hey Republicans-"WAKE UP!" Come hear Pastor Grisham and how he is combatting the WOKE agenda.

A Call to Action!!!

Richard and David were responsible for stopping the Drag Queen Story Hour that went across America targeting children. They stopped the WOKE Target agenda and so much more. They also have a lot of information about the Islam take over... here in Texas and throughout the US. They were in the news in Fort Worth a few weeks ago... preaching on the streets during the GLBT.

"In a world clouded by half-truths and deception, The Truth, The Whole Truth, Nothing But The Truth by Pastor David H. Grisham sounds the trumpet call for uncompromising biblical truth. This prophetic and urgent message challenges believers to awaken from spiritual slumber, embrace God's whole counsel, and live with the imminence of Christ's return ever before them. Grounded in the Bible and fueled by a watchman's conviction, this book exposes the dangers of false doctrine and half-hearted Christianity. It equips readers to stand firm in sound doctrine, repent genuinely, and proclaim the gospel boldly in these perilous last days. If you hunger for clarity, conviction, and an urgent call to action, this is the book for you. Prepare now—Jesus is coming soon!"

Catherine Simpson (Women Sharing Hope) has graciously invited ALL members of the RRRC to come hear this compelling speaker. You will not want to miss!

New Story: Fort Worth, Texas - On June 27, 2026, at Trinity Pride Fest in Fort Worth, Texas, street preachers Richard Penkoski and David Grisham were subjected to multiple violations of their First Amendment rights while attempting to preach on public property.

Upon arrival, they were immediately met by Fort Worth police officers who blocked their access to the public street and sidewalk, threatening both men with arrest for trespassing if they entered the area.

When Grisham reminded officers that he had previously sued the City of Fort Worth in 2014 over this exact issue - a lawsuit that resulted in a settlement and an official apology from the city - the officer dismissed the prior case, stating, "I don't care, you can file whatever lawsuit you want."

After being forced outside the barricades, the confrontation escalated as multiple officers allegedly threatened to cite the men based on the subjective reactions of attendees. A female officer stated they would be cited if they said anything "offensive." When Penkoski responded that offensive speech is protected under the Constitution and is not a crime, the officer claimed it fell under disorderly conduct, stating, "Well, yes, that is the conduct."

Another officer further confirmed that citations would be based solely on whether others were offended. When Penkoski asked whether calling a biological male a "male" would result in a citation if someone took offense, the officer responded that if he continued doing so and someone found it offensive, he would be cited.

Penkoski also pointed out that he was deeply offended by half-naked men walking around children at the event, but the officer dismissed the complaint, responding, "There's really not much I can do about that."

During the encounter, Penkoski pulled up and directly showed an officer established U.S. Supreme Court precedent confirming that the government cannot prohibit citizens from accessing traditional public forums such as streets and sidewalks simply because a private group holds a permit.

Although the officer acknowledged the information by responding, "Huh," he continued enforcing the restriction. As officers repeatedly pushed the preachers farther away from the event, David Grisham was ultimately issued a citation for “unreasonable noise.” When asked to explain what constituted unreasonable noise under the circumstances, officers were unable to provide a clear definition, vaguely suggesting it could involve “sticking a megaphone in someone’s ear” - which Penkoski states did not occur, as the megaphone was held at waist level - or simply offending people.

When the officers were asked how they justified suppressing the constitutional rights of Christians and veterans who fought for the country, they offered no meaningful objective explanation. As a veteran who was willing to die defending American liberties, Penkoski said he found it deeply alarming that a Christian preacher in modern America could be threatened with arrest and cited while standing on public property simply because his message offended those listening.

Thanks,
David
